

August 15, 2018

Re: No Back Doors

Dear SonicWall customers and partners around the world:

SonicWall, a leading provider of security solutions for more than 25 years, develops and sells network, secure remote access, and email security solutions that serve enterprise, distributed enterprise, government, mid-market, and small- to medium-sized customers around the world. At SonicWall, our singular focus is to enable our customers to secure and control their global networks from a constantly evolving matrix of external as well as internal threats.

Our solutions do not have and have never had back doors designed into the products. We remain committed to providing transparency and tools for those concerned with providing the highest levels of security for their organizations at the most competitive cost of ownership levels.

Thank you for your interest and support,

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "John Gmuender". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, sweeping "G" and "M".

John Gmuender
CTO & SVP, Engineering Department

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "Matt Neiderman". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, sweeping "M" and "N".

Matt Neiderman
General Counsel & SVP, Human Resources